

INTENTION

A thousand times, I've heard it said,
That if you ask, you shall receive;
It's taken me many years to believe,
It seemed all too simple inside my head;
But then I looked back on my life instead,
At all fulfilled wishes up my sleeve,
There were those that were so hard to achieve,
Others just dropped on my plate like slicing bread.
Some were bred in very surprising ways,
But all have left a mark I can't ignore;
Of course a few fed the proverb that says:
Truthfully, be careful what you wish for,

Because it's all about intention,
That's the way it goes,
My future is my invention,
That's how it grows;
It's my co-creation with God.

Yes it's a co-creation,
An aspiring elevation,
To each and every way I chose.

Sometimes an old wish becomes redundant,
And needs to be revoked before to late,
It's manifested and my path gets bent,
Away from my life I try to create;
But if I am precise with my intent,
I usually reach my intended fate.

Because it's all about intention,
That's the way it goes;
My future is my invention,
That's how it grows;
It's my co-creation with God.

Yes it's a co-creation,
An aspiring elevation,
To each and every way I chose.
